STATION TO STATION WALKS

WALK

DULLINGHAM to FULBOURN

12½ miles - 6-7 hours

MUTLOW HILL TUMULUS

Closure of intermediate stations at Six Mile Bottom and Fulbourn has left a long trek for walkers heading for Cambridge, but use can be made of bus Citi 1 (every 20 mins Mon-Sat.) to break the walk at Fulbourn.

Much of this walk follows part of the Icknield Way Path, a recreational long distance route linking the Ridgeway national trail at Ivinghoe Beacon with the Peddars Way national trail through Norfolk. Impressive Fleam Dyke also forms part of the route, one of a series of early Anglo Saxon barriers controlling the approach to East Anglia from the SW. The Dyke is of great archaeological and botanical interest, as explained by an information board near Mutlow Hill tumulus. Near the end of the walk Fulbourn Fen Nature Reserve provides a contrasting (sometimes boggy!) habitat.
